PERSONAL PROJECTS

ScanDash

This project is a Django-based application that visualizes Nmap scan results in a user-friendly dashboard. The dashboard presents the output in the form of graphs, pie charts, and tables.

The project is designed to work with a cron job that runs the Nmap command at regular intervals, producing an XML output file that is then utilized by this Django project

Jarvis AI

Jarvis AI is an innovative, mini artificial intelligence bot I developed to automate a variety of system functions via user commands. This project was implemented using Python and leveraged several built-in libraries. The culmination of this project significantly enhanced my skillset in python and its implementations
